

HARRISON GREENBAUM COMEDY WRITING WORKSHOP

Sunday 11:00am – Rm 435

Harrison Greenbaum has been described by Time Out NY & the NY Daily News as "the hardest-working man in comedy" and that's because he does more than 600 shows a year. That means he's doesn't just have a ton of experience, but that he's also very, very tired. After chugging a couple of Red Bulls, Harrison is going to take all the lessons he's learned as a stand-up comedian and show workshop participants how their application will not just make you funnier but a better performer and artist overall. This hands-on experience will walk you through writing better, funnier jokes and the process that ensures they work every time! Workshop participants are also encouraged to bring 3-5 minutes of magic and/or a link to a video of their performance, as Harrison will work with each of the participants to come up with clever and hilarious ideas to make their magic funnier and stronger, a service he's provided for some of the most famous comedians and magicians on the planet. See why the NY Times called Harrison "a favorite star on the comedy scene" and why his mom says he's "her favorite [and only] son." Highly recommended!

- (1) 90 minutes
- (2) $50.00
- (3) 15 people (First 15 people to register and pay)
- (4) How is this different then the lecture? Will be a lot more hands-on and in-depth; will include working on everybody's individual ideas
- (5) Everyone gets pins and stickers included with the workshop.

Email Jon Cap at joncap13@gmail.com with your reservation or tell him at NEMCON.

Email